Water conservation, 2020

Mugberia Gangadhar Mahavidyalaya successfully observed the "Water Conservation" programme on January 22, 2020, at 11:00 a.m. The event, organized by the Department of Geography, aimed to raise awareness about the critical importance of water conservation.

The programme witnessed active participation from students, faculty members, and administrative staff. The Department of Geography organized an insightful presentation on water conservation strategies, emphasizing the need for sustainable water management practices.

Furthermore, it was announced during the programme that a student poster competition on the topic of "Water Conservation" will be conducted. This competition aims to encourage students to creatively express their ideas and solutions related to water conservation.

All students, faculty members, and administrative staff are urged to participate in this upcoming poster competition. This initiative is a significant step towards fostering a sense of responsibility and promoting environmental consciousness within the college community.
